MEDICAL.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.
NEW REMEDIES! NEW REMEDIES!
Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,
623 KEARNEY STREET, COR. COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854 for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhoea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe, and has resumed practice at his Dispensary, 623 Kearney street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco, where his old patients and those requiring his services may find him.
The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.
How many thousands of persons both male and female are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgence, or from virus absorbed into the system. Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible, life-destroying maladies—see that they are cured for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to DR. GIBBON, a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate case without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by taking the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.
Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse, this solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

Married Men,
or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them, or delay to obtain immediate relief.
DR. GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

Caution to the Unfortunate.
Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who with bogus sworn to certificates, deceive the unwary. Some of the self-styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing and may save you many regrets, for, as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus diplomas, certificates, pretended patients' letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.

Cured at Home.
Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country with full and plain directions. By inclosing Ten Dollars coin in registered letter through the Post-office or through Wells Fargo & Co., a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union. All communications strictly confidential.
Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco. Post-office Box 1957.
REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 1,957 ON THE LETTER. Consultations FREE.
☞ Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the DAILY OREGONIAN.

Search for the Bodies—Particulars of the Casualties.

BOSTON, May 27.—Thorough search was made through the night in the ruins of the building on Washington street. No more bodies have been discovered. The following is a record of casualties so far as can be learned, up to noon to-day: Dead—Mrs. Lizzie Crampton, James M. Frawley and E. Ide Exley, a child. Severely injured—Maurice Ackerman, John Farley, Mrs. Martha London. Slightly injured—George A. Stetson, Mrs. Lizzie Bailey, John Mahoney, George Lamb, Samuel Baywood, Miss William A. Catlin, H. McIntyre, Thomas Conners, Fred H. Lord, Thomas Carrey, of Haverhill; H. J. Buckley, Mrs. Lillie E. Hersey, Samuel Farwell, William Pratt, William T. Gardiner, Mrs. Tottin, Gardiner George Hamlin, T. H. Gray, Jacob Valors, Little Lohency, S. A. Ward, S. Frazer, Sidney Sawyer, D. Frazer, Mr. White. Total 3 dead, 3 severely injured and 22 slightly injured. Several persons who refused to give their names or who started for their homes subsequent to the explosion are known to be more or less injured. Of those severely injured Ackerman is the only one unlikely to recover. Losses by the explosion will probably not exceed $30,000. Cause of the explosion is yet unexplained.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Decoration Day.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—The President has issued an order closing the various departments of government on Saturday, 29th inst., Decoration day.

Ingalls Succeeds Meigs.

Rufus Ingalls, assistant quartermaster general, was detailed to-day to act as quartermaster general during the absence of Gen. Meigs, who has been detached for special service in inspecting and reporting upon the organization of foreign armies, especially in reference to the quartermaster's department. He will be absent over a year.

The Papal Envoy call on the President.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—To-day, Monsignor Roncetti, ablegate, with his secretary and others of the Papal envoy called on the President at the executive mansion and stated that the Holy Father instructed him to call on His Excellency and express his regard for the nation and its honored chief. The President made a brief reply reciprocating the kind expressions of the Pope. The party afterwards called on the Secretary of State and other members of the cabinet.

Completion of Survey of the Darien Ship Canal.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—The surveying party sent out by the government to locate the line of the proposed ship canal across the Isthmus of Panama having completed its work, have returned. The expedition was subjected to numerous hardships and dangers to health, but met with no loss of life among officers or men. The early estimate of $60,000,000 for the work is not sufficient. The Napipi route is the shortest, but will require [illegible] miles tunneling.

Calls by the Papal Envoys.

The Papal envoys called on the President and various members of the cabinet to-day, and were cordially received.

The Indian Negotiations.

Secretary Delano arrived this morning and held a council with the Sioux Indians and stated his object in bringing them to Washington. Spotted Tail replied but didn't indicate what course the delegation would pursue.

What the Secretary said to the Sioux.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—The remarks of the secretary of the interior to the council of Sioux Indians were similar to those of the President yesterday, showing the necessity of their removal from the Black Hills.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Red Cloud and Spotted Tail both say to-night they will not hold any council with the secretary to-morrow, but intend to hold a council among themselves and talk over the proposition by the secretary of the interior. To-day they are somewhat confused and say they don't understand what the secretary means when he tells them government does not intend to force them to go, and then says if they don't go the white people will be allowed to come into their country and Congress will probably withhold appropriations from them. They think this looks like forcing them. In conversation among themselves this afternoon, they all agreed never to go down into the Indian Territory and that if the Government attempts to force them it will require all the army. They think there is room enough for them in their own reservation and that they can get along without the Black Hills.

Sheep Skins must Pay Duty.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—The secretary of the treasury has decided that imported sheep skins, dressed with the wool on, must pay 25 per cent. duty ad valorem.

Movements of Vice President Wilson.

Vice President Wilson left for Omaha to-day, where he will remain over night, and from thence go to Des Moines, Iowa, by the early train.

CHEYENNE, May 27.—William Allen, an engineer on the Union Pacific Railway, was drowned in the lake this afternoon, caused by the upsetting of a sail-boat.

Organization of the Committee of Thirty.

PARIS, May 27.—The committee of thirty organized this afternoon by the election of M. De Lavergne as president, and Lalfinage and Levoyer as vice presidents. De Lavergne in his opening address, which was received with cheers, called on all good citizens to rally round the republic.

THE TILTON-BEECHER CASE.

Evarts Begins.

NEW YORK, May 27.—Brooklyn city court was crowded this morning, the attendance being unusually large. Evarts began by saying what very diverse ties the trial might present, the multitude of an advocate's duties knew no end. He could wish for the eyes of Argus to pry into every crevice of the testimony, for the hands of Briareus to hold up the whole mass of it so that at some fingers' end there might be the passage which would throw some light upon it, for the power of reason that could grasp it and separate it from the dross, losing not one pennyweight of the gold of truth in it. It is true in this case, from the time when the scandal burst forth, so far as individual act were concerned, the defendant and lady had not received the charity which the scriptures taught. The people had been trying America and New York had been trying Brooklyn. The Presbyterians had been trying the Congregationalists and the latter had been trying Plymouth church. When they came to consider defendant at the outset there was an expression of public opinion as to what a crime it was to be done by such a man. The result would be that unless he could prove himself as clear as in the day of judgment a doubt of his guilt would remain always the same.

Referring to the judgment of the public which Beecher had already been subjected to he said the idle and profligate of the city believed in his guilt because he was a clergyman, and were glad to see that those views were accepted by more serious classes. Many looking upon Beecher's robust physical health concluded he had overcome his sense of duty and religion. In this connection he referred to a letter which appeared in a Western paper claiming that a man who had done so much for religion and had such a drain on his moral system was entitled to indulge to a little extent any of his desires. Evarts said this was a weak argument. Referring to the action of Beecher since the scandal broke out he asked how many men would have continued as he did his Master's work unmindful of the charges brought against him. Speaking of the beginning of the scandal, Evarts said the first important promulgation in the case grew out of Woodhull's threat and the Woodhull publication. The next promulgation gave rise to popular acceptability of its source. It was the publication of the Bacon letter by Tilton himself. Evarts then referred to the appointment of the church committee and said those who knew of the charges were examined. The evidence was weighed and the results made known. Mrs. Tilton accommodated herself to the position she held as a wife and mother as against her church and pastor, gave an account exonerating Beecher from having improper sexual relations with her and offering and vindicating her own honor. Beecher was examined and cross examined. The verdict of the men forming that committee was one that should have satisfied all honest and right minds. Finally the case was brought to the tribunal of justice. Plaintiff had his choice as to which court he should come and defendant had to submit to the course the case had taken. The eminent lawyers who had carried the case along for plaintiff had brought great advantages to bear on the case. Beecher was left to take whoever he could get among what was left of the legal luminaries. They had been here for five months, when the weather was as cold as the light which introduced Moulton's and Beecher's friends, up and now they had got into warm weather like that of the 2d of June on which Mrs. Moulton smothered Mr. Beecher's grief with an afghan. No offense, said counsel, could better be charged against Beecher by Tilton than this, and he found a man who was to be made scapegoat and in his (Tilton's) own wife a woman who, he said, was pure as gold. But he had sworn he would strike Beecher to the heart and pursue him to the grave and there was no resource like this. Counsel then referred to Beecher's prominence in New York and Brooklyn and to the closeness with which every word and action of his was watched by every one. The pursuers in this case, said Evarts, were Tilton, Moulton and Mrs. Moulton, though law only gave action to the husband. Counsel then spoke of the nature of the crime imputed and said it was the seduction of a married woman during a period when she bore children to her husband. Was there a worse crime than that? Was there a crime that was visited with a worse judgment from all men than this? He had made his charge, left no obscurities as to its nature, and from the inexhaustible fund of language he possessed he had framed it into phrases and sentences that he thought would carry conviction with them. Recess.

After recess Evarts resumed his argument. He said the incredibility of so flagrant and heinous an imputation on two excellent persons as he was justified in pronouncing these parties was sought to be modified by the plaintiff by qualifications which would commend the charge to human credibility by making out that good persons could commit evil and see in it no harm. The first step was taken to this end. Good men might do wicked things and bad men good things. They said this lady never did anything she believed wrong and was always pure minded and had no carnal inclinations and never discovered she had violated the marriage vow till she read a novel in which was no adultery but ennoblement of woman's affections which interfered with devotion to the husband. Beecher, according to the prosecution, said he entered not through lust but love—elevating, purifying, unselfish love. If he had adulterous intercourse with Mrs. Tilton it was merely a circumstance in the strengthening of his mind for the benefit of sinners and lifting him nearer to God. Evarts commented on the folly of an attempt to make such a charge appear creditable. Adultery was adultery and no such claims as this of Tilton, that both persons committing it were pure and good before the act and pure and good after it, could be admitted for a moment. There was no such miraculous kind of adultery as this. The proposition that such crime could occur without preliminary moral degradation and without the accompaniment of inflamed desires and the triumph of the flesh over the spirit, and that it could be practiced with the maintenance of all the beautiful virtues of life, was one that struck a blow at all men's wives and daughters. If we were to abandon the divine sentiment on which society had rested for so long and go back to the old physical law of personal security we should need a wife deposit company and a paramour alarm to summon us to their presence in case of necessity. Counsel then turned to the requirements of the law to meet such a case as this. The English law is that confessions alone were not sufficient grounds for the destruction of the marriage relation but only proof of the fact. Proof of actual bodily contact was required. Proof of conduct, disposition for adulterous purposes, entanglement of affections for adulterous purposes and of the opportunity of companionship and personal contact with security were absolute methods of proving the body of the crime. It was a mistake to say that proof of the body of the crime was not required. These are required by our own law and it was necessary on these facts thus proved accompanying the confessions of parties. That there is inadequate ground for verdict there was not much ground, said counsel, for suit of divorce in this case. The issue in this case was whether Beecher, who stood for this country in the height of her extremity against England, facing a series of crowds of Englishmen of the better class and faced them down, doing what no single voice or man ever did before or since the world began—whether he was that beast so coarse and brutalized that would enable English people to return the taunt that a jury discovered that his courage was not of the soul—whether they were to say by their verdict that this man whom every stranger who had been in the court room desired to grasp by the hand, that he was the man who should be excluded from all companionship and he could premeditate a persistent cool seduction of a married woman. A verdict, said counsel, of six cents would be as disastrous to Beecher in this case as a verdict of $100,000, and their verdict could not be a divided one but must either be for plaintiff or defendant. Evarts then took up the law of circumstantial evidence and read from authorities to the jury. He said the prosecution had not failed to produce direct proof on account of any feeling of delicacy. He didn't hesitate to bring Joseph Richards on the stand. He didn't hesitate to bring a poor woman from the hospital to repeat her lie. Commenting on Richards' testimony counsel called attention to the fact that he testified to greeting Beecher cordially at the very time he had seen what induced him to fear his sister had been committing adultery.

CANADA.

A Schooner Foundered—Sufferings of the Crew.

GODERICH, Ont., May 27.—The schooner Nina, bound from Michigan City to Goderich, sprang a leak on Monday night and went down in Lake Huron. The crew took to the boats and had a struggle to reach land owing to the great quantity of ice in the lake. They arrived here last night, having been two days and nights in the boat, with only a loaf of bread to divide between them.

What we habituate ourselves to admire we love to associate with, and what we associate with we gradually imitate and adopt as [illegible] into our lives. They who associate with the good are much stronger than they who alone go out to fight the evil. Christianity would never have succeeded had it been a system of mere negations—if it had trained its disciples to bitter scorn and intense and direct opposition of what was heathenish and corrupt.

Cheerfulness is an excellent wearing quality. It has been called the bright weather of the heart. It gives harmony to the soul and is a perpetual song without words. It is tantamount to repose. It enables nature to recruit its strength, whereas worry and discontent debilitate it, involving constant wear and tear.

TERRIBLE CONFLAGRATION!

Burning of a Catholic Church During Services—700 Persons Present.

AWFUL PANIC

7[illegible] Persons Trampled to Death or Burned Alive.

The Horrible Details.

SOUTH HOLYOKE, Mass., May 27.—One of the most terrible disasters in history occurred to-night in the burning of the French Catholic church at South Holyoke during evening service, involving the death of sixty-seven men, women and children. The exercises had nearly closed and a vesper canticle was being sung when the flame from a candle caught the drapery around the statue of the Virgin Mary and streamed up and caught the building. Immediately a panic ensued and the people rushed for the doors. There was but one entrance to the gallery and that from the front. On the stairway leading from the gallery the people were packed in a solid mass, struggling to clear themselves as the flames rushed in that direction, and this soon became blocked, rendering exit impossible. Many jumped over the sides of the galleries on the crowd beneath and were trampled and killed. The priest's residence joins the church on the rear and many escaped through an entrance leading to the house back of the altar. The priest's exertions to keep order were fruitless. The screams of the living and moans of the dying made a deafening tumult above the orders of the pastor, who worked most heroically and was personally instrumental in saving many lives. One family of four were in the church and all killed. Many were pulled out by the arms and feet so badly burned that they lived but a few hours, the flesh peeling from them on being touched. Some were taken out with scarcely any flesh remaining on their bones.

The Sisters of Mercy from the convent were soon on hand caring for the wounded and holding services over the dying. Father Dufresne also held services, his mother being among those terribly burned. He lost nearly all in his residence, so rapidly it burned. The large wooden tenement block of Joseph Perow, near the burned church, was thrown open for the reception of the dead and the wounded. Several deaths occurred in the building during the night. Several were also taken to the New York Mills boarding house and physicians gave the wounded the best care. Those who were too badly burned to move were put under the effects of morphine and passed away without a struggle. While the exercises were being held over the dying, the most intense quiet prevailed and the laborers knelt on the floor with uncovered heads. But about the Morgue and in the street the wailing of the multitudes was pitiful to hear. Among the persons in a dying condition are Mary Lachance, Mrs. Bridge, mother of seven children, one of whom is missing, probably among the dead; Laseanth Bridge, Sophia Hibbert, Annie Lapointe, Jacosta Hild[illegible]. Charles Comme burned badly but will recover, as probably will the brother of Father Dufresne. It is estimated that 20 or 30 were taken to other houses, some of whom may die.

The recognized dead up to this hour are Mrs. Burgess, Mrs. Victor Morin, Mrs. Calixte Lamine, Mrs. Lavina, Mr. Deperpiner, wife and four children, Isaac Morin, Fabier Morcan, Miss Ida Lafrance, Justin Bressan, Alphonsine Morneau, Mary Daucett, Etta Miner, the daughters of Augustus and Alsene Naston.

Badly burned: Mrs. Theophile Blanchard, Mrs. Burdeaux, Mrs. Dupont, Hermine Laporte, Henriette Timeneur, Calixte Dufresne, slightly burned; Louise Ponguette, Louise Ferriere, wounded; Rosalie Davlan, and in Pascal Longuette's family there is one dead and two dying, and in the family of Francois Dorey there are four slightly burned and one missing.

The priest's house, which joins the church on the rear, was also burned. The bodies were taken to Peter Movotte's, Main street store and Park street school house.

The following were also seriously burned: Mary Gading, Mary and Lucy Hicks, Louisa Brown, a young chapel girl, Victoria Brison, Louisa Forrier, Lizzie Mercier and Lena Blair. A large majority of these must die. One girl was terribly burned and moved to the House of Providence. One girl escaped from the gallery by jumping on the back of a man who carried her out, while her sister, who was with her, was burned.

Several members of one hose company were playing ball near the church when the fire broke out and a relief steamer was out for practice, so that the fire department was promptly on the spot. The scenes at the doors are described as terrible. They were blocked with struggling people seeking exit. Outside the people cleared the way several times, but as often it would become blocked up again. The windows were broken open and several escaped in that way. The last to get out of the church was said to be a man with his wife and daughter. The father took up his daughter and rushed with her to a place of safety. Louis Langlois, of Riverside mill, went in to render aid when a little girl came tumbling down before the door under the feet of the throng. Though he burned his hands sadly in doing so he was able to pull her out, but the little girl was injured.

A young woman beat out one window frame and jumped to the ground safely. An old woman of sixty went to the same opening, but hesitating to jump was pulled inside by the hair by a brutal fellow. He jumped clear and she fell and was seriously injured. Of a family of five four got out alive, one little girl 12 years old being burned. She was sought by her little brother and at last discovered dead.

John Lynch, a man on finding people pressed in at the bottom of the church door, pulled many down who were on top, thus saving a dozen lives. Ex-Constable Casey describes the scene as he saw it with a glass from the top of Hutchins' block. The whole affair was over in fifteen minutes. He could plainly see through the blazing rafters and roof the poor people running about. Large black spots could be seen in the flames and a half minute later these spots sent out a brilliant light which was succeeded by a dark flame. Mr. Roberts, who with his family of four children were in a hurry, saved his daughters by forcing them out of the door, but his boy, a bright lad, perished in the flames. Many people were badly injured by jumping from the gallery windows. Annie Hibbert and a child six years old escaped from the building after their clothing had become ignited, and many persons had limbs broken in attempting to escape.

TELEGRAMS TO THE EVENING PAPERS

[From the Bulletin.]

The Third Party Revival.

NEW YORK, May 26.—The Times this morning in an article on the third party revival concludes that for the renewal of the Cincinnati movement there is absolutely no practicable excuse. Gradually, as the time draws near for the opening of the canvass, the Republican and Democratic organizations will prepare to enter the field with candidates and platforms representing the average purpose between them. A third party next year would be an idle experiment resulting in a ridiculous farce.

The Steamship and Railroad Troubles.

The directors of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company will meet to-day for the purpose of considering the best method to be adopted on the expiration of the contract with the Panama Railroad June 6th, the latter company having declined to enter into any new negotiations with the Pacific Mail Company towards renewing the contract. The vice president of the Panama Railroad Company stated that since the Pacific Mail Company had been notified that after the present contract closed the company would not resume business relations with them, no negotiations whatever had been opened between the companies. The Panama Railroad Company propose running their own line of steamers from New York to the Isthmus.

The proportion of people in conditions of poverty in the United States is undoubtedly less than any other country. But the number of those who can and yet do not make provision for the future, is so large as to demonstrate the old truth that a great deal more than the mere opportunity is necessary to incline people to a prudent course. It is notable that of the thriving people in the United States who have risen to competence and even to affluence from small beginnings a considerable number are of foreign birth. They have known what it is not to see such avenues to property open to them as exist in this country, and when the opportunity which they desired is given them as a new thing, they are not slow to improve it.

PHOENIX, May 27.—Harvesting in this valley has now fairly begun, everything indicating a rapid harvest owing to the small amount of land seeded this year, caused by the high price of grain. Careful estimates give the year's crop at 4,000,000 pounds against 5,000,000 last year. The probabilities are that low bidders on government contracts will lose this year.

JUSTICE TO GENERAL HALLECK.—The famous movement up the Tennessee river, which resulted in the capture of Fort Donelson, General Sherman credits to General Halleck, and the occasion when it was first suggested and seriously talked of is thus described: "I remember, one night sitting in General Halleck's room on the second floor of the Planters' House, in St. Louis, with him and General Cullum, his Chief of Staff, talking of things generally, and the subject then was the much-talked-of 'advance' as soon as the season would permit. Most people urged the movement down the Mississippi river, but Generals Polk and Pillow had a large Rebel force with heavy guns in a very strong position, at Columbus, Ky., about eighteen miles below Cairo. Commodore Foote had his gunboat fleet at Cairo and General U. S. Grant, who commanded the district, was collecting a large force at Paducah, Cairo and Bird's Point. General Halleck had a map on his table, with a large pencil in his hand, and asked, 'Where is the Rebel line?' Cullum drew the pencil through Bowling Green, Forts Donelson and Henry and Columbus, Ky. 'That is their line,' said Halleck. 'Now, where is the proper place to break it?' And either Cullum or I said, 'Naturally the center.' Halleck drew a line perpendicular to the other near its middle, and it coincided nearly with the general course of the Tennessee river, and he said, 'That's the line of true operations.' This occurred more than a month before General Grant began the movement, and, as he was subject to General Halleck's orders, I have always given Halleck the full credit for the movement, which was skillful, successful and extremely rich in military results; indeed, it was the first real success on our side in the civil war."

THE DEAD OF NAPLES—SHOCKING MODE OF BURIAL.—A correspondent writes from Naples: "The Campo Santo Becchio, the great charnel house of Naples, contains three hundred and sixty five pits under a wide paved square. Every evening the stone which covered one of those pits is removed and the common dead of the city for the day are thrown into it, without even a winding sheet to cover them. The old man, the young child, the rough lazzarina and the tender maiden are dropped in together in one indiscriminate mass, quick lime is thrown in to consume the bodies, and the pit is sealed for another year, to be opened at its close. We waited not to see the revolting scene, although the city carts were arriving with the dead, but drove to the Campo Santo Nuovo, the cemetery for the aristocratic dead, and here I was surprised to find a burial ground laid out with such refined taste, shaded with the cypress and other trees and adorned with tombs of the most costly description. Many of them were in the form of chapels built of Italian marble elaborately finished. After what I heard of the burial of the dead at Naples and after what I had seen at the Campo Becchio, it was a relief to enter one that indicated so much refinement of feeling."

HOW A MAN FEELS TO BE RUN OVER BY THE CARS.—On Monday last a freight conductor, I. Averill, fell across the rails at Wells river and the wheels of a car weighing 13,000 pounds passed obliquely over his body and off the left leg some six inches below the hip. When the wheel passed over, Averill listened for the crushing of the bones, but they did not break, but the wheel of the truck almost instantly, he felt sure, would cut the legs off. But the wheels passed over, and before the rear trucks had reached him he sprung out and was standing bolt upright. For five minutes he felt no pain, but since then the pain has been almost unendurable, and he has been kept under the influence of opiates. Two jack knives in his pocket were bent nearly double. It is supposed the flange of these wheels struck upon these knives first, and passed up to the top of the leg and thus avoided the shearing effect of the flange upon the rail. The skin upon his person was not broken, but the flange broke the tissue of the flesh on the top of the legs and underneath the rail sank into the flesh, leaving its mark distinct. Mr. Averill, if carefully attended, will get along. This is the only case on record where a car has run over a man's legs leaving the bones perfectly unharmed.

Bad language easily runs into bad deeds. Select any society you please, suffer yourself to converse in its dialect, to use its slang, to speak in the character of one who relishes it, and I need not tell how soon your moral sense will lower down to its level. Becoming intimate with it you lose your horror of it. To be too much with bad men and bad places is not only unwholesome to a man's morality but unfavorable to his faith and trust in God. It is not every man who could live as Lot did in Sodom and then be fit to go out of it under God's convoy. This obvious principle of itself furnishes a reason not only for watching the tongue but for keeping ourselves as much as possible out of the company of bad associates.

LETTER FROM SAN FRANCISCO

[illegible] SENATOR BOOTH—HIS [illegible] ADDRESS—IMMIGRATION TO OREGON

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2[illegible], 1875.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Last evening the first clarion was sounded in the ensuing political campaign of California. Hon. Newton Booth, U. S. Senator from this State, met with a grand reception by the citizens of San Francisco. A vast throng assembled at the Grand Hotel, where he appeared on the balcony and delivered a short address, which from its significance at this peculiar juncture deserves a more extended notice than I shall give it.

He said he believed this ovation was not intended so much as a compliment to him as it was a manifestation of their sympathy with the principles of the Independent party. They owed him nothing. He should devote his earnest labors to the success of the Independent party. This party has its origin directly with the people. The old parties had outlived their usefulness—they were now manipulated by stock jobbers who used the old organizations for public plunder. He referred to the municipal affairs of San Francisco, which in many quarters reeked with corruption. The assessor's office was a nest of thieves; the people patiently paid the enormous taxes—an involuntary tribute to corrupt party management. Revolutions commence with the people. They would again arise and hurl from their high places the men who under the name of party were brigands upon the political highway. The last general uprising of the people of California was a vindication of their integrity, and plainly shows that they will not patiently submit to be led to the shambles. He believed the rights of the humblest citizen were as worthy of protection as those of the mightiest corporation. A victory to the Independents of California will have more than a State significance—it will foreshadow a like victory in the Presidential campaign. Let all eyes be directed to that point. There seems to be some who cannot comprehend that the rebellion is conquered; others believe that the Southern Confederacy is still a live power. He believed it to be the sincere desire among the rank and file of the people on both sides to bury the old quarrel and to unite on live issues for national advancement. The Independent party, now looming up throughout the nation, has indicated its principles—"No taxation direct or indirect except for the necessary purposes of government; no creature of the law can be above the law." Such sentiments constitute a lasting foundation for a national party. "There are no bridges behind it for retreat, and it wishes none. It invites the co-operation of all who believe in its necessity. It seeks the alliance of none for political success. Its aims are higher. When parties represent honest differences of opinion upon living political questions, they are proper, but when they serve to perpetuate sectional hate, they are evils. And when they can be manipulated for selfish purposes and to defeat the popular will they are rotten and ought to be destroyed."

The vast assemblage frequently testified their approbation by loud applause and cheers.

Senator Booth is worthily the chief exponent of the Independent party. In his utterances there are no uncertain sounds. Like a brave leader, he steps boldly to the front and sounds the clarion. He has no time-serving apologies. Like a surgeon confident in his skill he goes direct to his subject, and with a two edged knife he dissects the body politic and exposes its corruptions. He calls things by their plain English names. He is a slow, deliberate, positive speaker. Each sentence as it is uttered goes forth warmed with enthusiasm of the orator. His gestures, intonations and very looks are eloquent within themselves. There is an earnestness of feeling which pervades his delivery, and which from the first invites the most deliberate attention of his hearers. His personal appearance is pleasant, ingratiating and yet dignified and commanding. Physically he is robust, tall and graceful.

I have never beheld so intelligent a mass of people or such great numbers at a political open air meeting. The halls of the Grand hotel were literally packed long before the speaking, and from the remarks made by many present from different portions of the State and from the enthusiasm manifested, it is not difficult to foresee that the independents are deeply in earnest and will not cease their efforts until the battlements of the partisan opposition are surmounted not only in this State but throughout the nation and victory crowns every effort.

IMMIGRATION.

This is the subject now absorbing much attention here. The streets, railway cars, hacks, hotels, theaters—every place is crowded with the new comers. I have visited different agents and bureaus here where inquiring immigrants can at all times be found. In all the hotels are found pamphlets and printed circulars for free distribution on the resources of Oregon. This is the first time I have ever found the Californians brought face to face with the music. They cannot avoid reading of Oregon. Go where you may, the plain black letters stare you in the face—RESOURCES OF OREGON. It affords me intense gratification to record this great awakening to the interests of our State. Let me not however seem ignorant of the moving spirits in the background. All praise to those few enterprising, wide-awake and public spirited citizens who have contributed their time, money and close thought to this subject. Many with less patience and perseverance would have abandoned the enterprise, and some even left the State in disgust at the want of sympathy manifested by the Legislature of the State. This body was appealed to for the paltry assistance of a few thousand dollars in this great work, but without avail, and to-day we behold our State appointing immigration commissioners to labor for her interests without any compensation, obliging them virtually to empty their own pockets or beg from one to the other for the means absolutely necessary to carry on the work. Compare this niggardly, ox team policy with the munificence of California, and it is apparent why the rush has been here and not to Oregon. This city alone contributed through her council at one time $5,000 to employ a lecturer in the Atlantic States, and the legislature has, at different times, greatly aided efforts to induce immigration. It is estimated that each emigrant arriving at Castle Gardens brings with him ready means $85, and he contributes to the wealth of the nation $500. An appropriation of $5,000 by our State would the first year be returned tenfold to the taxable property. From January to May 15th 1874, there arrived by cars in this city 15,915 persons, and in the same period of this year there arrived 27,838, being a total increase of 11,883 in a little over four months. The most of this tide is now pouring into Oregon. It comprises a superior class of people, many with means, who will tend to add a new stimulus to the industries of our State. An Oregonian may now feel buoyed up with renewed hopes. A new and permanent era has dawned upon us and the whole State will feel its impulse. No especial thanks to the legislature of Oregon, but to those generous, intelligent, public spirited gentlemen of the Immigration Board at Portland, and to the intelligent German Secretary of the Oregon and California Railroad Land Department. All hail! DOUGLAS.

Human nature follows the sun. Sleep is most refreshing before midnight, for it gives life's daily fever its natural course. So healthy spirits rise until the sun reaches meridian and subside thence forward until midnight. This, of course, relates to natural living, to which all law should conform.

THE TERRITORIES

The handsome young ladies in Seattle run foot races.

The [illegible] says the Tacoma sawmill has shut down for repairs.

A new and shorter road is now spoken of between the two Tacomas.

A bear was killed near Seattle one day last week which weighed, when dressed, 250 pounds.

Captain Ainsworth will erect a country residence on Gravelly Lake, Pierce county, this summer.

The publisher of the Steilacoom Express receives $[illegible] currency for doing the official printing of Pierce county for one year.

During the week ending May 16 there were 78 tons of coal taken out of the new tunnel, containing seven rooms, at the Renton mine near Seattle, making an average of 34 tons to the room.

At the May term of the district court held at Walla Walla John W. Hand was sentenced to stop one year in the penitentiary on McNeil's Island, and J. W. George was registered for three years' rations at the Hotel de Island. John W. Hand will also spend two years in the Thurston county jail.

Sickness prevails to some extent in the Klickitat valley. The only daughter of Dr. Schoonover, an emigrant, was taken from their family circle by death, her sickness being measles. Mr. Shafer lost his youngest child and an emigrant named Bradshaw lost one of his little girls by measles, which appears to be an epidemic.

The farmers of Klickitat valley have sown three times the amount of acreage in grain this year than any previous year. Wheat, barley, rye and oats all promise an abundant harvest, that is, if the crickets and friendly grasshoppers do not appropriate the crops to themselves. The rain fall has been abundant, and all kinds of crops promise an abundant harvest.

Now comes the Olympia Echo and sends the Gaylord frauds on their way thus: "We regret to state that there is a slight difference of opinion regarding the lecture delivered last Saturday evening, in this city, by Mrs. Gaylord. The disagreement lies with the lady and the audience which listened to the same. Judging from the opinions of many of our citizens who attended the lecture, we cannot hazard our reputation by recommending the Gaylord troupe to the denizens of our neighboring towns."

A correspondent from Centerville writes to the Bellingham Bay Mail as follows: "The Stillaguamish river is high, but falling. There is no fear of a freshet this year, as the snow at its head has mostly melted and gone. The crops look well, and over 1,200 acres will be cultivated this year. Our farmers are in good spirits. We have two schools, two stores, one hotel, one blacksmith shop and eight logging camps. Immigration is coming in fast. Thirteen Norwegian, Swedish and Danish families are about to locate here on the river above the jam. Their advance agent says that the jams can and will soon be removed, and that it will be no hard job. We intend having a grand horse-race on the Fourth of July for $1,200, and also music, oration, ball, etc."

A correspondent of the Advocate, writing from Goldendale, W. T., says: "Mr. Brownlee, living some 14 miles east of this place, had his house burned, with a portion of its contents. Loss five or six hundred dollars. The wife of John Stump was knocked down and severely bruised by an ungovernable well windlass. Her recovery is slow. The wife and infant of J. J. Golden were thrown from an Indian pony. Mrs. Golden was severely injured, but her infant was not even disturbed from its usual occupation. A little child of William Kinney was severely kicked in the face by a wild horse. The youngest child of William Hogkins, while playing keep house with his little sister, was severely burned. The little soldier for over three weeks has had to rest on his hands and knees. His recovery is gradual. The daughter of Mr. Day was thrown from a Cayuse pony. Little hopes entertained of her recovery. The daughter of Mr. Green, the postmaster at the Block House, was thrown from a horse, having one arm broken and receiving other slight injuries."

BREAD FOR ENGLAND.

[From the Washington Chronicle.]

An average home yield gives England about seventy five per cent. of the wheat required for her own people. The English crop is more frequently under than above that proportion. For the balance England depends upon the wheat exporting countries of Europe and America. Usually the supply from the United States is not very far from one half of the entire deficiency. During the year 1874 the wheat imported into England, for home consumption, amounted in value to $126,045,310. Of this the United States supplied more than one-half. The entire importation was obtained from the sources indicated, in the following proportions—rating the pound sterling at five dollars:

United States	$70,903,955
Russia	15,903,615
Dominion of Canada	11,190,85[illegible]
Germany	10,088,115
Chili	5,902,275
Turkey	4,660,410
Egypt	861,210
France	819,175
Denmark	519,780
Austrian Territories	9,660
Other Countries	7,996,250

Here is a total importation of wheat amounting in value to a fraction over one hundred and twenty-six millions of dollars, more than seventy millions of which was supplied from the United States, exclusive of United States wheat shipped to England from the Dominion of Canada.

With increased facilities and lower rates of transportation from the interior to the shipping ports there is nothing to prevent the United States from increasing her export of wheat and other agricultural products. Every million of dollars worth of wheat and provisions sent across the Atlantic diminishes by just so many millions the export of gold. This is an important consideration in view of the preparations now being made to resume specie payment at a day not very far distant. Every effort made, therefore, to reduce the cost of transportation and other expenses in transporting our surplus agricultural products from the interior to shipping ports is an act of patriotic statesmanship and will always be appreciated by the people.

THE ADVENTISTS AGAIN DISAPPOINTED.—The Adventists of Chicago, after making their own interpretation of the Book of Daniel, fixed upon Monday last at midnight for the end of all things here below, and the coming of the Son of Man. They gathered, to the number of nearly two hundred, in their accustomed place of worship, where the day was spent in fasting and suffering annoying visits from unbelievers. At night they sought a secluded hall where the ceremonies of feet washing and eating the paschal lamb were observed. With the approach of evening came a thunder-storm, during which the skies were filled with a peculiar yellow light, giving temporary hope and courage to the Adventists on the appearance of the promised sign from heaven. After the fulfillment of their services in the hall, the company knelt, awaiting the coming of midnight and their hour of triumph. The early hour came, but the solemn ticking of the clock continued, and the darkness of night gradually melted into the light of dawn, before which the hopes of the self deluded band vanished. Slowly and sadly they wrapped the mantles of earth about them and quietly stole away, let us hope to learn that "the Kingdom of Heaven cometh not with observation."

Frank Terrell, a youngster aged 6 years, at Salem, got a fish hook in his left hand, and a physician had to be called to cut it out.

OREGON

The Good Templars will hold a grand picnic near Brooks Station on Saturday of this week.

A. B. Morris says that a good many salmon trout in the Santiam ditch are a foot and a half long.

The Salem Mills now offer 82½ cents per bushel for wheat, and the farmers still have some to sell at that price.

Hon. Henry Warren has returned to his farm in Yamhill. No man ever retired from office with clearer skirts than he.

A. S. Miller & Son secured the contract to build the Lebanon-Santiam bridge at $9,000. Work will be commenced at once.

Joe Tachea was over from Tillamook this week and he informs the Enterprise that that county is fast settling up with new comers.

The Business Council, P. of H., of Linn county, will meet at Grangers' Hall in Albany on the second Tuesday in June, at 10 o'clock A. M.

The hoodlums of Silverton are dealing out deadly doses to the canines of the vicinity in the most reckless manner and without apparent justification.

The board of directors of the late Home Manufacturing Company met at Salem last Saturday, for the purpose of winding up the business of the concern.

The Salem Flouring Mills are loading the Ben Bolt with lumber from Sam Bass' mill for a sack warehouse to be built near Eola, and when loaded will have the same towed to that place.

Master H. Burkhart, son of L. C., of Linn county, received a serious hurt from the kick of a wild young horse Tuesday morning. The blow was given square in the mouth, but owing to the close proximity of the horse no bones were broken.

Mr. Wm. Crabtree, living in the Santiam bottom, just below Lebanon, captured a white gopher some two months since, and has stuffed the skin for delivery at the Oregon Museum. Such freaks of nature are by no means common, yet occasionally there are found white black-birds, and other curious things.

Mr. A. L. Stinson, proprietor of the Pioneer Hosiery Manufactory at Jefferson, has commenced operations, the carding and spinning rooms being under the charge of Mr. James Barnes, a gentleman lately from a large factory in the East. This being the only hosiery manufactory in the State, Mr. Stinson will find a ready sale for all the goods he turns out.

There was 7,500 bushels of choice wheat raised in Tualatin precinct, Clackamas county, in 1874, and 5,000 oats. It has good facilities for marketing, as the Wallamet bounds it on the east and south, with good roads leading to Oswego, Oregon City and Portland. The nearest point to Oswego is three miles, and about the same to Oregon City. It has good schools and an enterprising population.

Mr. F. R. Smith informs the Record that they have been on an unsuccessful hunt for wolves in the hills south of Salem, for two wolves have committed fearful depredations on flocks of sheep. The depredators are two wolves, one of whom is a very large fellow, and the principal losers are Mr. Smith, Lewis Pettyjohn, Thomas Cross and J. L. Davidson. It is asserted that those two wolves have destroyed nearly $1,000 worth of sheep this winter and spring, as those gentlemen all have choice flocks. Others have suffered in less degree.

On Tuesday afternoon, Mr. R. H. Price, in receiving a lot of feed at the Salem Mills, several of the sacks came into the wagon from the shute with considerable force, striking his right leg. Although it hurt him at the time severely, he did not think he was seriously injured until yesterday morning, when in attempting to rise he found he could not use his limb. A physician was called, and it was found that one of the bones in the leg was broken. It will be some time before he recovers the full use of his limb. So says the Statesman.

The coroner's inquest on the body of Harvey M. Newsom, of Marion county, whose death was noticed in our Salem correspondence, showed that he had committed suicide by taking strychnine. The Statesman says: "The evidence produced before the jury showed that for the last two or three months he had been subject to gloomy spells in consequence of the same old story of human life,—affections trifled with and reckless disregard of the consequences in the victim. Whatever the cause that induced him, the method showed deliberate and determined will in the way he misled his parents and friends. The veil that charity throws over the misguided act should be equaled only by the sympathy for the aggrieved parents that have had another most bitter cup of sorrow in the loss of their youngest child, to drain even to its bitterest dregs."

MR CHOAT AND THE AMBITIOUS BOY

A great many boys mistake their calling, but all such are not fortunate enough to find it out in as good season as this one did. It is said that Rufus Choat, the great lawyer, was once in New Hampshire making a plea, when a boy, the son of a farmer, resolved to leave the plow and become a lawyer like Rufus Choat. He accordingly went to Boston, called upon Mr. Choat, and said to him:

"I heard your plea up in our town, and I have a desire to become a lawyer like you. Will you teach me how?"

"As well as I can," said the great lawyer. "Come in and sit down."

Taking down a copy of Blackstone, he said "Read this until I come back, and I will see how you get on."

The poor boy began. An hour passed. His back ached, his head and legs ached. He knew not how to study. Every moment became a torture. He wanted air. Another hour passed, and Mr. Choat came and asked:

"How do you get on?"

"Get on! Why, do you have to read such stuff as this?"

"Yes."

"How much of it?"

"All there is on these shelves, and more," looking about the great library.

"How long will it take?"

"Well, it has taken me more than twenty-five years."

"How much do you get?"

"My board and clothes."

"Is that all?"

"Well, that is about all that I have gained as yet."

"Then," said the boy, "I will go back to the ploughing. The work is not near as hard, and it pays better."

THE TWO MEN AND THE BEAR

Two men had to go through a great wood. One of them was short and stout, and one was tall and slim.

"I could not run fast or climb well," said the short one, "if a foe, man or beast came on me I should have to stand my ground."

"Have no fear," said the slim man. "I can run fast and climb well, but still it is my rule to stand my ground—I would fight for you to the last. I fear no man or beast, not I. Hark! what is that noise?"

"I am sure," said the short man, "that is the growl of a bear. I know there are bears in this wood."

The bear was soon in sight. The tall man ran a short way and hid in a tree. The short man fell flat on his face on the ground, and held his breath. The bear came to him, smelt him and thought he was dead. So he left him, and with a gruff growl or two went on his way.

When the bear was out of sight the short man rose from the ground, and the tall man came down from the tree.

"What did the beast say to you, my friend?" said the tall man to the short one. "I saw him put his mouth close to your ear."

"He told me," said the short man, "to put no trust in one who brags in the way you do, for those who boast so much are not brave."

The Daily Oregonian.

FRIDAY MORNING, MAY 28, 1875.

VIEWS THAT EVERYBODY SHOULD ADOPT.

The Bulletin of yesterday quotes approvingly some remarks of Carl Schurz upon the source of political corruption, the applicability of which to Oregon politics is apparent and striking. Mr. Schurz "set forth a truth which ought to be reckoned among the obvious ones, the commonplaces of social philosophy; the great truth that not only political institutions, but the political action and the political morals of any time are the natural and inevitable growth of the people among whom they are found. They are not something imposed from above, or even from outside, upon those among whom they prevail; they are the mere reflex of the moral condition of that portion of the people who have obtained control of political power. But this, although it will be questioned by few is in practice forgotten by many. We lament political corruption, and set ourselves to work with painful devices investigating committees, resolutions, amendments to constitutions, and what not—to reform our politicians; which is as much as if a physician were to attempt the cure of an eruptive fever by external applications. The revolting outside is but the visible sign of a consuming disease within. It is to the people, whom the corrupt politicians in more ways than one truly represent, that the sagacious political reformer will address himself, and with them he must begin at the beginning.

And the beginning was the moral sense; not only the perception and the knowledge, but the feeling, that there is a wide difference between right and wrong. Men among whom this feeling does not prevail, who do not take this difference to heart, so that it inspires their daily thoughts and guides their daily actions, will be more or less corrupt; and although they may not commit crime themselves, they will not be too dainty and particular about the characters of the men whom they select as their political representatives. Between the man of real ability, integrity, and high purposes, of whom they can hope to get nothing, and him who is only a crafty, specious, political charlatan, loose in life and tainted in reputation, but through whom they may hope, directly or indirectly, to get some gain, they will not long hesitate. Integrity will ride the beam."

Had not the tone of our evening contemporary on subjects such as that here discussed shown very considerable improvement and something of elevation of late, we should have to express surprise at the appearance of such sentiments in its columns and with its editorial approval; and we cannot forego the opportunity to ask everyone who reads this article to make the application of these truly lofty principles to the political affairs of this State for the last few years. The people allowed themselves to become familiar with individual corruptions and personal immoralities, and they put down, until very lately, whoever dared object on grounds of personal character to the men the politicians put forward for official station. The skillful knave, the crafty and ambitious demagogue, was enabled to manage the people through the party organization, and corruption in every form became the common means of accomplishing political objects. The public conscience, we sincerely and gratefully believe, is more alive now. It had been fortunate for the good name of the State, if it had been roused sooner, and in time to save our commonwealth from the disgrace it has suffered.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS OF THE UNITED STATES.

One of the most encouraging facts in connection with the material growth of the United States of late years, is the constant diminution of imports and increase of exports. The total value of importations during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1872, was $640,338,766; calendar year of 1873, $624,097,487; calendar year 1874, $577,039,741. It will be observed there was a very considerable decrease during each of the last two years. Meanwhile our exports for the same time show a large increase. Thus, in the fiscal year of 1872 the total of exports was $571,959,467; calendar year 1873, $702,492,124; calendar year 1874, $702,529,866. The increase in 1874 over 1873, is not by any means so large as that of 1873 over the former year. This is explained by the fact that nearly the entire calendar year of 1873 was passed before the great panic came, and the following year was one of business prostration on account of the collapse. It is rather to be wondered at that there was not a greater falling off in exports than that the increase was so small in 1874. Doubtless the exportations of the current calendar year will far exceed those of last. It is likewise matter for congratulation that the balance is in favor of the exportation side of the account. The balance of trade is with America at last.

An analysis of the export account shows that there were exported in 1874, in round numbers, $450,000,000 worth of agricultural products, as follows:

Cotton	$215,500,000
Cereals, flour, meal, bread, farina, &c.	142,500,000
Beef, bacon, hams, butter, cheese, milk, eggs, fish, preserved meats, oysters, pork, and garden vegetables, &c.	76,000,000
Farm animals, fruits, hides, hay, hops, oil-cake, rice, seeds, tallow, &c.	22,000,000
Total	$456,000,000

That may be considered as the surplus of our agricultural products during that year. But while the exportation of this surplus is far better for the prosperity of the country than the importation of an equal amount for our own use would be, or even than no surplus at all, there is another side to the case which is not presented in either of those hypotheses. The subject which has of late been presented in so many ways through these columns, as affecting the welfare of our own State, is equally worthy of consideration in connection with the economy of the nation. The labor necessary to fit this $215,000,000 worth of cotton for use is worth more than $600,000,000, and the people who would be employed in performing this $600,000,000 worth of labor would consume and pay for almost the entire remaining surplus of agricultural products. So by manufacturing all this raw material at home, and with the population thus employed, consuming the rest of their exported products of the farm, we should add $600,000,000 net to our money circulation. Would it not be much better to sell this $456,000,000 worth of commodities at home, and then get $600,000,000 more for working it up. Edmund Burke's answer to those who complained that imports of England were so great as to impoverish the country, was, that so long as those importations were of raw material to be worked up in English factories, it was far better to import it than to allow foreign nations to work it up and get the pay therefor. His view was correct, as all came afterwards to see. And the same reasoning applies with even greater force in this country where we produce the raw material.

ESPECIALLY.

Some paper having propounded the inquiry, "Why does not Secretary Delano retire at once?" the Nation makes that a pretext for delivering a lecture on the philosophy of resignations of office, in the course of which we find this analysis of the subject in its various phases:

> Any officer who knows that he has been guilty of misconduct, fraud or peculation, and finds his conscience oppressed by the fact, may, if he pleases, resign, and in that case he will not be prevented, and the usual complimentary testimonials will be exchanged and published; second, if any officer steadily sets his face against misconduct, fraud and peculation in office, and thereby creates much hostility among the supporters of the administration, he also may resign (and if he does not wish to go he will be asked to resign), and with the usual complimentary testimonials. If, however, any officer is accused of improper conduct by the press, he will be entitled to testimonials at once, without the question of his resignation being raised, and he will remain in office until the wicked editors cease their attacks.

If the Nation expects by such evasions and impertinences as that to satisfy the public mind, it is greatly in error. The question remains unanswered. Besides, if a person proposes to present a theory upon which the apparently unaccountable things about Washington are to be explained, what is the use of stopping so short? There is nothing in all this fine philosophy to answer another important question that is just now demanding response: Why is General Meigs sent to Europe and Ingalls made Quartermaster-General? The telegram says Meigs goes to Europe to examine and report upon the organization of armies over there, "especially the Quartermaster's Department;" but that is pretty thin. It is liable to be suspected this sending of General Meigs out of the country has some other object—"especially the Quartermaster's Department."

CITY.

SET AT LIBERTY.—Several weeks ago, three small boys named respectively Riddle, Winsett and Dougherty, were arrested on a charge of larceny and tried in the police court. They were found guilty and each sentenced to the county jail for three months. In this instance the sentence was seemingly very severe in proportion to the offense. Such was doubtless the case more from the fact that the offenders had been before the court previously on different charges, the character of which were quite trivial. But inasmuch as the boys manifested a ready disposition to participate in the commission of petty offenses, whenever an opportunity was presented, the court concluded to make an example of them. Ninety days was a long period for these boys to be incarcerated in the jail, subject to the intimate association of low and vicious criminals. However richly the juvenile offenders deserved the penalty, it was thought that the interests of humanity as well as the demands of justice would be better subserved by the liberation of the boys, and sending them away from the city. To the accomplishment of this humane purpose, several Christian persons in the community made special effort in behalf of the culprits. Their efforts, we are pleased to record, have been successful, and have resulted in the liberation of these boys on the condition that they are to be sent off into the country. At present they have all been set at liberty by the order of the police judge, and are far away from the city, and, fortunately, removed from vicious associates and numberless temptations. All must agree that such a course is infinitely better than to have suffered the culprits to serve out their full term of confinement. Hardened and calloused by evil associations, they would be more ready to engage in the commission of greater crimes at the expiration of the sentence than before.

IN TROUBLE.—Ed Kennedy, whose police court record will compare favorably with that of any other criminal in the city—or county for that matter—is again in serious trouble. Some time ago Kennedy and a pal entered a house and stole a number of articles, one of which—a very handsome picture frame—they attempted to sell. Both Kennedy and his accomplice were arrested for larceny, but as no one claimed the picture frame or appeared to enter complaint, the court had no option but to discharge the defendants. A few days ago it was discovered that a larceny had been committed in a dwelling house, and that Kennedy was one of the parties. Complaint was at once entered against him, and that worthy arrested yesterday afternoon. An examination of the case will take place in police court this morning. Without any disposition to prejudice the case, we should unhesitatingly say that the prospects before Edward are exceedingly brilliant for his acquiring a thorough knowledge of the intricate mysteries of brick-making under the personal superintendence of Mr. Watkinds. Kennedy, by his numberless petty offences, has cost the tax-payers of this city, first and last, hundreds of dollars, and if his guilt is established in this case it will be a relief.

EPISCOPAL VISITATION.—Archbishop Blanchet returned a few days ago from a tour of two weeks' duration, during which he visited the Grande Ronde Indian agency. Last Sunday, the archbishop administered the sacrament of confirmation to 18 adults. Twenty-three persons received holy communion. Although the weather was very disagreeable, the church was crowded with a devout congregation. The archbishop delivered an instruction in Chinook for the benefit of the Indians and afterwards in English. The choir on the occasion was composed of Indian pupils under charge of the Sisters, and their rendition of the hymns and responses was very pleasing.

OBSEQUIES.—The Oregon City Enterprise, in speaking of the late Jos. D. Locey whose body was found on Monday, says: "The remains were brought up Tuesday on the E. N. Cooke, and immediately on her arrival the members of the Order went down to the dock and carried the body of their deceased brother to the Baptist church, where appropriate religious services were had, Rev. J. W. Sellwood officiating. The attendance at the services was very large, the building being filled to its utmost capacity. At the grave the ceremonies of the Order were performed, and all that was mortal of the Hon. J. D. Locey consigned to the grave. Let him rest in peace."

BADLY INJURED.—One of the horses used in hauling away the earth from the excavation at the corner of First and Yamhill streets was badly injured yesterday, from the results of which it will probably die. The animal while drawing up a cart heavily loaded with earth, stepped on a piece of plank, the sharp end of which flew up, and, striking near the flank, penetrated the bowels some distance, making a fearful wound. With some difficulty the snag was taken out, when the intestines protruded from the gash. A doctor was sent for, the bowels were forced back, and the wound sewed up. It is more than probable that the animal will die.

ST. VINCENT DE PAUL SOCIETY.—The Sentinel says: "The treasury of the St. Vincent de Paul Society having become entirely exhausted, they are compelled to ask the citizens of Portland again to aid them in their benevolent designs. For this purpose, Rev. J. B. A. Brondel, of Steilacoom, has kindly consented to deliver a lecture on the evening of June 16th, in the Catholic church. The subject is one that will prove interesting to every student of history, it being 'The Pontificate of Pius IX.'"

ANNIVERSARY.—Sunday next will be the twenty-fourth anniversary of the First Congregational Sunday school, and the officers and members of the school, and members and friends of the church generally, propose to celebrate the occasion at 7½ o'clock in the evening of that day, in the lecture room of the church, by having a religious concert by the different members of the school, interspersed with appropriate remarks and little speeches from the older ones.

VERY ILL.—With sincere regret we announce the very dangerous illness of Father Kelly, at his home near East Portland. He has been quite ill for some time with heart disease and dropsy. A week or more ago the disease took a favorable change, and strong hopes were entertained of his recovery. Early the present week the disease returned with alarming violence, and yesterday we were informed that the physicians have abandoned all hope.

NARROW ESCAPE.—Yesterday afternoon two clerks were busily engaged in drawing a bundle of merchandise from the sidewalk up to the second story of the building by means of a pulley. When the bundle was about half-way up the rope broke, and if the clerk in the door of the second story had not shouted to the one below, he would have been crushed by the descending weight. But he heard the shout, and narrowly escaped death by dodging.

PASSENGERS.—Last evening at 6 o'clock the steamer Ajax sailed from this port for San Francisco with the following passengers: Mr. Walker, J. Simon, E. J. Smith, F. E. Kellogg, Mrs. Russell, S. S. Ackley & wf, Mrs. H. H. V. Johnson, Mrs. Drelsford & 4 children, Mrs. Quimby, F. S. Aiken, Jos. Oppenheimer, Jno Stone, C. D. Burch & daughter, Mrs. S. Thornton & 2 children, Mrs. C. L. Barbour, W. P. Cosey and 14 in the steerage.

CONVALESCING.—We are pleased to state that Rev. Wm. Roberts, presiding elder of Portland district, is convalescing. In a note to the P. C. Advocate, under date of May 27, he says: "It would now seem quite probable that my health may be sufficiently restored in a couple of weeks to enable me to resume my usual labors. The plan for the last quarter of the present year will appear in the next issue of this paper."

PIONEERS' REUNION.—Those intending to be present at the reunion of Pioneers at the State Fair grounds on the 15th June, will confer a favor by handing in their names at an early date to either Capt. A. P. Ankeny or Mr. J. McCraken, that arrangements may be made for railroad tickets at excursion rates.

OFFICIAL VISIT.—Hon. W. R. Dunbar, G. W. C. T. of the I. O. G. T., returned last evening from a trip to The Dalles. To-day he will visit Powell's Valley. To-morrow evening Mr. Dunbar will pay an official visit to Multnomah Lodge No. 12.

JUVENILE TEMPERANCE UNION.—A temperance meeting for the special benefit of Sunday school children will be held at the Hall-street M. E. church on Sunday afternoon next, commencing at 3 o'clock. An interesting programme of exercises has been prepared and a very profitable time is anticipated. All cordially invited to attend.

PRELIMINARY EXAMINATION.—J. E. Cutler, charged with manufacturing and selling liquor in an Indian country, was examined yesterday before U. S. Commissioner Wilcox. He was held to answer the charge before the grand jury. Mr. Sherrick, charged with a similar offense, waived an examination and was bound over.

READY FOR DISTRIBUTION.—Printed copies of the laws passed at the last legislature have been received at the office of Mr. George L. Story, county clerk, and are now ready for distribution among the county officers and justices of the peace.

RELIGIOUS SERVICE.—Rev. Bishop Morris will preach at St. Paul's church in Oregon City, next Sunday, both morning and evening. At the morning service the right of confirmation will be administered.

BRIEF NOTES.

Memorial Day to-morrow.

The Washington Guard were out last evening for street drill.

Ladies' temperance meeting at the Baptist church this evening.

The soon-to-be marriage of a prominent druggist is hinted at.

Fishing is a lottery in which blanks are many and prizes few.

Yesterday the Catholic church celebrated the feast of Corpus Christi.

We had a roaring old runaway down Front street on Wednesday evening.

A new social party will be organized at a private residence this evening.

There are vague rumors of a new Democratic paper being started in the city.

The Portland Library is cramped for room to properly display the great increase in books.

Fires have been "alarm"—ingly scarce for some time past, and yet the "boys" are not happy.

Seventy barrels of whole salmon, intended for smoking, were carried away yesterday on the Ajax.

General Howard and Capt. Wilkinson, of his staff, are to leave for Alaska on a tour of inspection.

All the fish which have ever been caught would not pay for the cost of the bait, to say nothing about time lost.

The O. S. N. Co's line was down yesterday between this city and the Dalles. Late in the afternoon the wire was raised.

There is some prospect that Rev. Mr. Hammond will come to Portland shortly and hold one of his interesting series of meetings.

Bishop Weaver, of the United Brethren church, will preach in the Taylor-street M. E. church, Sabbath morning next at 11 o'clock.

Gen. Howard has concluded to make Saturday a military holiday for the department, and in accordance thereto, the offices will be closed to any and all business transactions.

Mr. L. Fleischner intends soon to erect a fine stable at the rear of his residence on East Park street between Main and Salmon. Excavation has already been commenced.

The Catholic Social Union has adjourned to the first Tuesday in October. Members who have assumed characters in the forthcoming entertainment will meet every Tuesday evening for rehearsal.

Silver cake-knives look well enough as wedding presents, but when about twenty persons are waiting for a slice of the bride's cake, an old and well-tried carver is the best instrument to be brought into use.

There will be an oyster supper at the Hall street M. E. church this evening for the benefit of the pastor, Rev. W. C. Chattin. Tickets for the supper 50 cents. Ice cream extra. The church is on the northeast corner of Sixth and Hall.

Mr. Otho N. Hall, who arrived on the steamer, will enter into the insurance business with his brother Edward, who is manager of the North British Mercantile and Firemen's Fund Insurance Companies in this city. Like all others coming to Oregon he is welcome.

MEMORIAL DAY.

General O. O. Howard sent a dispatch yesterday to Vancouver ordering all the troops at that post—two full companies—and also the regimental band, to come to Portland on Saturday and participate in the ceremonies of Decoration Day, in conjunction with the Grand Army of the Republic. The troops will arrive here on the Vancouver in the forenoon, accompanied by the splendid military band. There will be about 100 soldiers, besides the members of the band, which will add greatly to the number and appearance of the procession. These troops will appear in full uniform with their arms, and, headed by the regimental band, will present an imposing appearance marching through the streets. In addition to the troops General Howard will turn out with all the field and staff officers connected with the headquarters in full uniform. At 2 o'clock sharp the procession will form on Third street, right resting on Washington, under direction of the officer of the day, Geo. C. Sears, and his aids. Starting from that point, the following route of march will be observed: Up Third street to Alder, down Alder to First, down First to Ash, up Ash to Fourth, up Fourth to Yamhill, down Yamhill to First, down First to Stark, down Stark to the ferry, and from thence to the Lone Fir Cemetery. The Regimental Band will lead the procession, followed by the military companies from Vancouver. Next will come the Portland City Band heading the members of Baker and Canby Post. Following that organization will be the several military companies of the city, should any of them conclude to turn out. Carriages, containing Gen. Howard and his staff and invited guests, will bring up the rear.

STATE UNION S. S. CONVENTION.

The State Union Sunday School Executive Committee held a meeting at the office of Johnson, McCown & Macrum, of this city, May 27, at 11 o'clock A. M. Present—W. Carey Johnson, chairman, E. J. Northrup, J. Allen Macrum, and Dr. J. G. Glenn, statistical secretary. Absent—Wm. Wadhams and W. H. Pope.

The time fixed upon for holding the next annual convention was the 24th, 25th and 26th of August, 1875. The committee adjourned to meet on Saturday, June 12, 1875, at 1 o'clock, P. M., at which time the arrangement of the programme and other business will be attended to.

W. CAREY JOHNSON,
Chairman, Ex. Com.

PICNICS.

The Red Men will hold their long-deferred picnic on Wednesday of next week.

The Red Men's picnic will take place on Wednesday next, and great are the preparations being made for it.

We understand that the several Hebrew societies of the city have united and propose to hold a grand picnic at East Portland on the 20th of June. The proper committees have been appointed.

Great preparations are being made by the Turnverein for their annual May Fest. Canyon Garden has undergone great changes, and those attending the affair on Sunday may anticipate many new things.

THE COURTS.

OREGON CENTRAL RAILWAY ELECTION.

Hearing some intimation yesterday morning that circumstances worthy of particular mention were likely to attend the annual election of directors of the Oregon Central Railway Company, which was to take place at 12 o'clock, and having also the curiosity of a small—very small—stockholder in the concern, we concluded to make it a point of being personally present. We did not expect to find ourselves part and parcel of the coup d'etat. In fact, if we had taken any thought on that particular phase of the subject, we should simply have dismissed the matter as too Jim Fisky and Jay Gouldy for phlegmatic, slow-going Oregon. But when the hour arrived it was apparent in many ways that there was business ahead. There was—what had never occurred before—a numerous attendance of stockholders from the interior (Yamhill and Washington counties), and they all appeared to be of one accord upon one proposition at least: they wanted a change of directors.

Promptly Mr. Joseph Gaston, secretary of the company, called the meeting to order, read the certified list of stockholders, and stated that the president, Mr. Ben Holladay, was absent, and there was therefore no person designated by law to preside at the meeting, and it would be necessary for the stockholders present to choose some person for president of the meeting.

Some person moved that Mr. S. Coffin act as president, which being seconded, Mr. W. L. Halsey, as vice president of the company, claiming the right and duty to preside, demanded the reading of certain sections of the company's by-laws, which was done. He and Mr. Gaston disputed the point for a short time, and not without some asperity, when the question was put and it was voted nem con, that Gen. Coffin should preside. Mr. Halsey orally protested, and Mr. J. K. Dolph, who appeared as his attorney, filed a written protest.

Mr. Halsey then asked if the names of Milton S. Latham and William Norris were not on the list of stockholders, and was answered in the negative. There was some wrangling about the stock held by these gentlemen, Mr. Gaston and the president of the meeting insisting that it was not entitled to vote, for some reason, the exact nature of which we, being in a distant part of the room, did not fully understand. Whatever the point was, the stock was decided to be "crooked"—in the language of the whisky fraud dispatches—and was not allowed to vote. Some part of the stock held by Holladay was also decided "crooked" and excluded. We did not learn the exact amount of the "crooked" stock, but are informed it embraces all the stock obtained by Mr. Holladay in the transaction of 1870, by which he came into the control of the road.

Mr. J. N. Dolph also claimed to have stock, but his name did not appear on the list, and he did not vote.

The voting for directors then proceeded quietly, resulting in the choice of a board of directors from among the original stockholders, viz: S. Coffin, W. T. Newby, Henry Buxton, Robert Imbrie, D. C. Lewis, O. H. Kimball and Joseph Gaston.

Mr. W. S. Ladd called for the report of the officers as to the condition of the property, finances and business of the company, and was informed that no report had been prepared. The secretary, in answer to a question by Mr. Ladd, said the road was just about paying running expenses.

Mr. Halsey gave notice verbally that as soon as that meeting, which he considered unlawful, should adjourn, there would be a lawful election held for the election of directors.

Mr. Stephen Blank presented the following preamble and resolutions which were, on motion, adopted:

WHEREAS, Under the management of Ben Holladay our investment in the stock of the Oregon Central Railroad has been greatly depreciated, the rights of the creditors and stockholders have been defied, and the interests, wants and convenience of the people along the line of the road wholly ignored, and the road itself suffered to get out of repair, thereby imperiling the lives of passengers and endangering the safety of property; therefore, be it

Resolved 1. That we hereby wholly condemn and disapprove of the management of the Oregon Central Railroad by said Ben Holladay.

2. That we have good reason to believe that said Holladay has wrongfully and unlawfully appropriated and converted to his own use a large amount of the funds borrowed to construct said road, and also a large amount of real estate donated in aid of said road; and we therefore call upon the new board of directors to make a thorough investigation of said Holladay's acts, and if these suspicions be well founded, take such steps as will compel the return of said property;

3. That we hereby instruct the board of directors to immediately put the road in thorough repair, and make such regulations as will fully accommodate the people on its line, and build up its business.

The newly elected directors took the oath of office and proceeded to organize, and elected J. Gaston president of the company.

It was then determined to change the place of the office of the company to a room at the company's freight house, and a scene of strife ensued in which there was for some time apparently danger of violence. We did not stay to see it all. Thinking a general melee was a pretty good thing to keep out of, and having already got a good deal more "circus" than we ever got before for twice the money, we retired, not only out of sight, but out of the possible range of a No. 33 Remington cartridge. We were greatly astonished on learning afterwards that there was nobody scalped, and that in fact the fighting part of the performance was a repetition of the old story of shearing the hog—"more noise than wool." The new directors, however, got away with the office-desk and records. But later, we are informed, the desk was carried back by the other party, vi et armis.

But the contest was not over when the scenes at the office were ended. The new board of directors having appointed J. L. Hallett superintendent in place of Mr. Brandt, the conductor of the train which was to leave at 2:30, promptly attorned—to twist a word out of its natural use—to the new officers and placed himself under their orders. Another squabble ensued, which ended at last with the forcible ejection of the conductor at the Fourth street siding, and the putting of another man in his place.

Meanwhile the other meeting announced by Mr. Halsey was held, at which the stock that had been rejected before elected the following as directors, being the old board entire: Ben Holladay, W. L. Halsey, J. N. Dolph, Geo. W. Weidler, H. W. Scott, M. Crawford, J. Gaston.

Night closed the battle and the parties at last accounts were resting on their arms, though all were able still to rest on their legs in case of an emergency.

This is a matter of considerable public importance, and we do not mean to treat it lightly, but there are some things that are extremely ludicrous, notwithstanding they are connected with grave matters, and this performance, to which, restrained by a feeling of the proprieties of the occasion, we have not done half justice, is one of that class. Who is right, who has the law on his side, we do not pretend to say, first, because we are not fully informed as to the points involved, and secondly, because we take it for granted the question will have to be settled by the courts, and deem it most proper to stand aloof till the courts have decided. It cannot be denied, however, that the management of the road has been oppressive to the people of Washington and Yamhill counties, the old stockholders who paid for their stock dollar for dollar to get the road. Their convenience has been ignored, their generosity used to enrich the favorites of the corporation, and themselves insulted and abused whenever they have dared to remonstrate, howsoever respectfully. If they are right we hope they may succeed, as we are sure their management of the road may be less selfish and more just; and if they be found not to have the law on their side, no one will pretend they have not great provocation for this vigorous attempt to assert their just demands for equal accommodations with those who have never given a cent to build the road.

The pleasant expression on the faces of those making their exit from the Clothing Establishment of JOS. KOHN, opposite the National Bank, is an indication that they have been treated well by the proprietor. Kohn knows what his customers want, and he invariably makes it a point to "fill the bill." His Stock of Clothing, Furnishing Goods, etc., is complete and the prices are regulated to suit all classes.

At The GREAT EASTERN CLOTHING STORE they are offering the finest Clothing to be found in the city, at prices that defy competition. There you can select from the latest styles which are laid in upon the arrival of every steamer from San Francisco. A full line of Furnishing Goods, Youths Suits, Valises and Trunks constantly on hand. Observe the sign, "Great Eastern Clothing Store." W HARRIS, Proprietor. 125 First street.

PORTLAND.

THE BASKET PICNIC.

At an early hour yesterday morning the members of the Portland Hibernian Benevolent Society met at their hall, and, preceded by the Northwestern Band, took up the line of march for the East Portland Park, where the basket picnic was to be held. Soon after the band and members were gone a number of ladies and gentlemen took up the line of march for the Park. The example set was generally imitated, and during the forenoon and afternoon a constant tide of humanity was pouring toward East Portland. At the Park all was "gay and festive." The hundreds who visited that pleasant grove during the day had abundant sources of pleasure, either in strolling about the woods, dancing, participating in the several exhilarating sports, swinging, or better than all, partaking of lunch, of which there was a profusion. A large number took their baskets full of eatables, and as there was a refreshment stand on the grounds no person had reason to go hungry. Music was provided by the band at frequent intervals, and dancing was indulged in until all were satisfied. At 1:30 o'clock the real sports of the day commenced. The following are the games and those who were fortunate to win the prize:

Ladies' target-shooting; prize, a parasol, presented by P. Selling; won by Miss Nellie Kearney.

Hurdle race; box of perfumery, presented by S G. Skidmore; won by J. J. Kearney.

Climbing a greased pole; a hat, presented by Meussdorffer; won by H. Hamilton.

Ladies' foot-race; a set of jewelry, presented by Franklin Bros.; won by Mary Ann Datey.

Lean man's race; set of sleeve-buttons, presented by J. O'Neil; won by J. Carney.

Wheelbarrow race; a neck-tie and pin; won by Hugh Brady.

Quoit pitching—a silver napkin ring, presented by J. B. Miller; won by Miss Tillie Raleigh.

William Rankin carried off the prize for killing the duck.

One of the most notable features of the day was the balloon ascension, which took place in the afternoon. After dark, at the conclusion of all the sports, dancing was kept up spiritedly until nearly 9:30 o'clock, when the picnic broke up. The procession reformed at the Park and marched back to the city, followed by the thoroughly pleasure-fatigued crowds. While marching back the band discoursed a number of dashing selections, and Roman candles and sky-rockets were sent whizzing through the night air at frequent intervals along the route. Two slight accidents occurred during the day, which were the only drawbacks to the sports and excitements of the day. Financially and in point of genuine out-door pleasure, the picnic can be set down as a complete success.

MILITARY NOTES.

Major William A. Rucker, paymaster, will pay the troops, to include the muster of April 30, 1875, at Fort Wrangel, and the military post of Sitka, Alaska Territory.

Major R. N. Batchelder, quartermaster, chief quartermaster of the department, will proceed to Forts Canby, Cape Hancock, and Stevens, Oregon, on public business connected with his department.

Major H. Clay Wood, assistant adjutant-general, will proceed to Forts Canby, Cape Hancock, and Stevens, Oregon, and inspect the accounts of disbursing officers at these posts, in accordance with the requirements of General Orders Nos. 45 and 64, series of 1871, from the war department.

Picnics are now in order, pleasant weather having come at last. When you go to any, always lay in a supply of cigars from Bird's, First street, opposite 107.

FOUND.—On First street, between Morrison and Alder, No. 105, the place where watches, clocks and jewelry can be bought at reasonable prices, and where watch repairing is done at a lower price than at any other establishment in this city. Call on W. Friedlander.

The Question Settled.—Those eminent men, Dr. Jas. Clark, Physician to Queen Victoria, and Dr. Hughes Bennett, say that consumption can be cured. Dr. Wistar knew this when he discovered his now widely-known BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY, and experience has proved the correctness of his opinion.

A CLOSE HARD MAN

A close hard man was Solomon Ray
Nothing of value he gave away
He hoarded and saved
He pinched and shaved
And the more he had the more he craved

The hard-earned dollars he toiled to gain
Brought him little but care and pain
For little he spent
And all he lent
He made it bring him twenty per cent

Such was the life of Solomon Ray
The years went by and his hair grew gray
His cheeks grew thin
And his soul within
Grew hard as the dollars he worked to win

But he died one day, as all men must
For life is fleeting and man but dust
The heirs were gay
That laid him away
And that was the end of Solomon Ray

They quarreled now who had little cared
For Solomon Ray while his life was spared
His lands were sold
And his hard earned gold
All went to the lawyers I am told

Yet men will cheat and pinch and save
Nor carry their treasures beyond the grave
All their gold some day
Will melt away
Like the selfish savings of Solomon Ray

MARIE, OR THE BLUE HANDKERCHIEF

About the end of October last year, I was returning on foot from Orleans to the Chateau de Bardy. A regiment of the foreign guard was marching abreast of me and on the same road I had hastened my steps to hear the military music which I liked so much but the band ceased playing; a few taps of the drum from afar off alone marked the measured step of the soldiers.

After an half hour's march I saw the regiment enter a small field surrounded by a clump of fir trees I asked a captain who n I knew if they were about to exercise

"No," said he to me, "they are about to judge and probably to shoot a soldier of my company for having robbed the man with whom he was quartered"

"What!" said I, "to judge, condemn and execute at once?"

"Yes," said he, "it is according to our articles of confederation."

For him, this was unanswerable as though all had been provided for in the capitulation—the crime the punishment, the justice, and even the humanity Besides if you are curious," added the captain, "I will get a place It won't take long"

I had always a passion for these sad spectacles, and I imagined that I could learn what death was by the face of the dying I followed the captain

The regiment was formed in a hollow square, behind the rear rank and on the edge of the wood, some soldiers were digging a grave They were commanded by a first lieutenant, for everything in a regiment is done with order, and there is a certain discipline in digging a man's grave

In the centre of the square eight officers were sitting on drum heads, the ninth, on the right and more forward was writing a few words upon his knees, but carelessly and only that a man should not be killed without some formalities

The accused was called He was a tall young man, of noble and honest face A woman advanced with him the only witness who was to testify in the case but when the colonel was about to interrogate this woman—

"It is useless," said the soldier "I will confess all! I stole the handkerchief from this woman's house."

The Colonel—"You Pierre! you were always an honest fellow"

Pierre—"It is true, my colonel I have always tried to satisfy my officers, and it was not for myself that I stole it, 'twas for Marie

The Colonel—"Who is this Marie?"

Pierre—"Tis Marie who lives yonder in my village near Arehberg where the great apple trees are I shall never see her more"

"The Colonel—"I do not understand you, Pierre, explain yourself"

Pierre—Well, my Colonel read this," and he handed to him the following letter, every word of which is present to my memory

My Good Friend Pierre—I profit by the recruit Arnold, who is engaged in your regiment, to send you this letter and a silk purse which I have made for you I was obliged to hide myself from my father while I made it, for he continually scolds me for loving you so much and says that you will not come back You will come back, won't you? But if you never return I shall love you all the same I promised myself to you the day you picked up my blue handkerchief at the dance in Arenburg, and brought it back to me When shall I see you again? What makes me happy is that they say you are esteemed by your superiors and beloved by your comrades But you have still two years of service. Get through them quick, for then we will be married Adieu, my good friend Pierre Your dear,

MARIE

P S—Try to send me something from France, not that I am afraid that I shall forget you, but that I may wear it always Kiss what you send me. I am sure that I shall find the place of your kiss again

When the letter was read Pierre resumed "Arnold," said he "gave me this letter last night when my billet of quarters was received All night I could not sleep I thought of the village and of Marie She asked me for something from France I had no money I had pledged my pay for three months for my brother and my cousin, who had returned home a few days before This morning when I arose to leave, I opened my window A blue handkerchief was hanging on a line, it resembled that of Marie's it was the same color, the same white stripes I was weak enough to take it and put it in my sack I went down into the street I repented of what I had done, and was about returning to the house, when this woman ran after me The handkerchief was found upon me that is the truth The capitulation demands that I be shot Shoot me, but do not despise me"

The judges could not restrain their emotion—but, notwithstanding, when the vote was taken, he was unanimously condemned to death He heard the verdict with composure then, approaching the Captain he begged him to lend him four francs The Captain gave them to him I saw then that he advanced toward the woman, to whom the blue handkerchief had been restored, and I heard these words "Madame, here are four francs I don't know if your handkerchief is worth any more, but even should it be I pay dear enough for it, and you ought to excuse me for the difference. Then taking the handkerchief he kissed it and gave it to the Captain "My Captain " said he, "in two years you will return to our mountains if you go near to Arenburg ask for Marie, give her this blue handkerchief, but do not tell her how I bought it"

He then knelt in prayer and marched with a firm step to his execution

I retired then and entered the wood that I might not witness this cruel tragedy A few musketshots soon apprised me that all was over I returned an hour afterward the regiment had departed, all was quiet, but in skirting the edge of the wood to regain the road, I perceived at a few steps before me traces of blood and a heap of earth freshly made I took a branch of fir tree and made a sort of cross, I placed it on the grave of poor Pierre, forgotten now by all the world except myself and perhaps by Marie

The preacher must learn how to preach be marking what comes after the preaching. It while he reads the people sleep and from week to week the audience diminishes he may with safety throw away the sleep bringing document, and try to look the audience more squarely in the face If the result is the same, he has not yet found the import of the dream and will perhaps do well to abandon both plans of speaking, and seek that third estate which the Germans say is golden

According to a French journal, straw possesses certain properties which give to it a positive value as a conductor of lightning This is a very old discovery In this country straws have been used for years as conductors of lightning— Jersey lightning we mean

The same [illegible] reports [illegible] in financial circles here that have [illegible] prevalent generally throughout almost the entire United States since the year began—[illegible] interest and a noticeable stagnation [illegible] of interest [illegible] time but there was a very great difference in the degree of [illegible] They are much more [illegible] in this coast [illegible] more [illegible] New England [illegible] from the East [illegible]

The great plethora of money in New York and other cities also to some extent in Boston and other cities shows that capital is [illegible] to almost the same extent that it did a year ago Should the whole summer pass without a revival of industry especially in the manufacturing line it may be feared that worse trouble than the recent strikes in the coal and iron regions may be expected in connection with the laboring classes

Although the condition of affairs in our part of the country are not of the utmost prosperity there is nothing indicative of any more serious obstacles in the way of a successful and fairly prosperous season's business than we meet every year and in many respects the outlook for Oregon is even better than usual

The United States treasury has about $6 000 000 in silver and will it is said have $10 000 000 by September with which sum Secretary Bristow thinks he can begin to replace the fractional currency This will be equal to about twenty five per cent of the amount of currency now out and indicates that resumption will be quite gradual It will give an inspiration toward gold payments when once the eastern people see silver currency generally circulated

There has been a good deal of railroad talk in business circles to-day—some of a very encouraging character in regard to the Portland Dalles and Salt Lake road There appears, however as yet nothing definite which the managers of the latter are disposed to make public

Home Produce Market

WHEAT—There is nothing new to report concerning this cereal But few transactions have occurred and there is no reason for changing the quotations given a week ago

FLOUR—Stocks here are being still further reduced by shipments to San Francisco and northern ports. Quotations are well sustained at $5 per bbl for standard extras, $4 25@4 50 for outside brands, and $4 for superfine The local trade is quite active

OATS—There are but few large lots now coming to market and shippers are clearing out their stocks pretty rapidly under good prices below The shipments already since the breaking of the ice blockade in February have been over 160 000 bushels. Oregon oats are favored in the San Francisco markets as will be seen from our telegrams commanding now as high as [illegible] per cental The growing crop in our State is reported to look very promising, and the surplus for export next year will probably [illegible] as large as that of the last crop

BARLEY—In no essential feature is there a change in the condition of the market with reference to this cereal Quotations for ordinary feed are $1 [illegible] and $1 40 for extra to choice brewing

MILL FEED—With no better supplies and a fair demand for the home trade and some orders for shipment to the North there is no tendency in prices to decline We quote bran at $17@[illegible] ton shorts $22@25 chops, middlings etc $27 [illegible] oil cake meal $30 with but little in market.

HAY—There has been rather a brisk demand for the home trade and prices for good, timothy remain firm at $10@12 a ton as jobbing rates

POTATOES—The receipts from the interior are very light and a fair quality is selling at $1 [illegible] 1 60 ₩ bushel

ONIONS—Prices are rather off for the old crop and the few lots reaching the market have sold at [illegible]c ₩ lb with but a dull demand

APPLES DRIED—There is no active inquiry but lots offering are quickly placed at [illegible]@6c ₩ lb

BACON—There is a good demand for choice lots, and good side meats sell at 13c ₩ lb Hams of ordinary brands are quotable at 13a15 cents ₩ lb and shoulders [illegible]c

LARD—There is a fair demand for good Oregon made at 16c ₩ lb in kegs or tins.

BUTTER—The market is fairly supplied with a fair article at 20c ₩ lb The demand except for local consumption is light. Fancy print for table use quotable at 25@30c when not sold on contract.

CHEESE—There are no changes in quotations Good State dairy cheese quotable at 15c ₩ lb

EGGS—Prices were put down to 14a15c last Saturday but on Monday again went back to 16c per dozen, and have so remained since.

CHICKENS—There is a better supply and prices are a little lower say $4 for good full grown and $2 50@ per dozen for spring

BEEF CATTLE—Live cattle in fair condition are quotable at 2¾a3c ₩ lb on foot, or dressed at 5a6c.

HIDES AND FURS—There is a good trade being carried on by local buyers and shippers Beef hides are quotable for choice dry 16@17c ₩ lb green salted 7c green 6c culls 10@12c elk 18@20c ₩ lb; deer, [illegible] green mink skins each $1 50 otter, $1@[illegible] beaver [illegible]@$1

WOOL—There have been but few small lots received here yet but operators are expecting fuller receipts next week Only about [illegible] 000 pounds were shipped by the steamer to day Dealers here quote good to fair at 20a23c ₩ lb extra 25c

The steamship Ajax sailed for San Francisco this evening at 6 o clock.

The steamer California is advertised to sail for Sitka and intermediate ports on Tuesday next

The bark Cara Thal is discharging her inward freight at Flanders wharf

The Rival is discharging her cargo at Pacific wharf

The San Francisco Commercial Herald of May 20th says The tonnage supply continues to be plentiful arrivals rather in excess of departures Wheat charters to a direct port in the United Kingdom may be quoted at £2 5s for A 1 iron ships and for wooden vessels £2@2 2s 6d There is more or less outside business doing as will be seen by details, which are annexed Crop prospects seem to be improving daily upon the Pacific slope and should no unforeseen circumstance occur within the next fortnight, like unto a severe northern sirocco to blast the growing wheat plant indications now point to a harvest approximating the yield of last season To say the least, the present outlook for ships to arrive in procuring freights during the year to come is now quite cheering

The steamship John L Stephens will leave San Francisco for this port on Saturday next at the usual hour

Ayer's Ague Cure,

FOR THE SPEEDY RELIEF OF

Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.

Has been widely used during the last twenty five years in the treatment of these distressing diseases and with such unvarying success that it has gained the reputation of being infallible The shakes or chills once broken by it, do not return until the disease is contracted again This has made it an accepted remedy and trusted specific for the Fever and Ague of the West and the Chills and Fever of the South

Ayers Ague Cure eradicates the noxious poison from the system and leaves the patient as well as before the attack. It thoroughly expels the disease so that no Liver Complaints Rheumatism Neuralgia Dysentery or Debility follow the cure Indeed where Disorders of the Liver and Bowels have occurred from Miasmatic Poison it removes the cause of them and they disappear Not only is it an effectual cure but if taken occasionally by patients exposed to malaria it will expel the poison and protect them from attack. Travelers and temporary residents in Fever and Ague localities are thus enabled to defy the disease The General Debility which is apt to ensue from continued exposure to Malaria and Miasm has no speedier remedy.

For Liver Complaints, it is an excellent remedy

The Holyoke Holocaust—Heart-rendi Scenes.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass May 28.—Intense exciteme prevailed last night in Holyoke, centering oppos the church at which the disastrous fire occurr and at various points to which the burned were c ried Wild efforts were made by people to r pel mell into the burning building to resc friends, and it was with difficulty they were k back. This was particularly the case with pare who, on the first impulse, rushed from the chu to save their lives but remembering they had children behind to perish returned impetuou Actual personal violence had to be used in sev cases to keep women back All about the stre men women and children were watching, piteou inquiring if friends had been saved One wom was positive her husband had perished, and co only be quieted by assurance from a friend that had just been walking with him. One of the m touching cases was that of two little girls about years of age, who rushed for the entrance of t building while the fire was at its hight, thi ing to find their father and mother, who w within They could only be restrained by an o cer who took them in his arms. It is a disput question whether both front doors were open escape There are those who state positively one them was closed and that it was impossible to ope on account of the rush. One man went to the clos door, and flourishing a club, threatened violen to any one who came near in order to get the cro away, but without success Others were as po tively that both doors were op Th church ciety was established about seven years ago, a Father Du Fresne had been the only pastor. T parish included all the French Catholics of the c whose number is estimated at 2,500 persons. T church was erected in 1870, entirely of pine, a was about 100 feet by 60 two stories, with galleri on the sides, and north end about 25 feet wi There were two doors in the north end and a ves ale, from which two doors opened into the bo of the church. The galleries opened into the ves ule At the rear end was another door, by wh a few persons escaped, Immediately upon t breaking out of the flames all occupants of galler rushed to the last door and, falling upon one other choked up the doorway with their bod piled in all ways seven and eight deep. Here m of the lives were lost. From this mass Chief Engi rescued one young woman after having taken two dead bodies from above her The chief a others had their clothes almost burned from the and were badly burned about the hands In rear the church was the priest's residence which a was destroyed. The walls were pulled down af the fire was nearly out. One woman jumped fr highest window down upon the front steps, bre ing an arm. A man with two children in his ar jumped from a window and escaped. It is not qu certain that all the bodies have been taken fr the ruins. In the haste to get as many as possi from the building before it fell, several were tak but a short distance and it is possible a few mo may be taken from the debris.

Further Particulars of the Disaster.

SPRINGFIELD Mass May 28.—The bodies of persons burned to death at Holyoke last night ha been identified, in addition to those of 15 or 20 w were removed to their homes by their frien Nearly seventy have died, and some forty more burned or otherwise injured. The hero of t disaster was John Lynch, a brave fireman, who w the first to respond to the alarm. He describes scene when he reached the burning church appalling Wedged tight and immovable in doorways was a dense mass of humanity, none been able to stand upright from the terrible pr sure of the crowd behind, while upon and o them a sheet of fire rolled like a wave stream out into the open air Without stopping to e their danger, Lynch and Chief Engineer M rushed into the flames, spurred on by the pi cries. For God sake come and help us," an began pulling out bodies. A moment later and well-directed hydrant stream from Mount Holyo struck the brave rescuers and undoubtedly sa them from being burned alive.

The first persons drawn out were burning, they passed directly through the stream of wa and the flames were extinguished Some poor cr tures fell fainting on the long wooden st leading down to the street, and were able walk. By this time the entire department h arrived and worked with such energy and will th when the fire was extinguished wood walls of the structure were standing, and w pulled down by the hook and ladder men in or that the search for bodies might be made. It w only a few minutes after the water struck before fire was out but the destruction to life, during brief period was terrible. Some were seriously injured One person appeared at a window complet wrapped in flames, and after staggering an inst fell to the ground dead and unrecognizable. Hu dreds went into the wreck as soon as opportun offered, to search for bodies, and a force of pol organized to keep back the crowd which had ga ered The greater number of the bodies were fou in the fatal entry way, burned some of them crisp The body of one woman was found in the also occupied with the clothing burned entirely a fleshy woman weighing 180 pounds, was drag screaming from the mass She was carried a sh distance from the church and placed on the gr while the flesh actually peeled off her back and moment she fell over dead. The scenes last ni and to-day in the school house basement, where bodies of the dead were carried, were heart re ing The coroner's jury was summoned to-day excitement continues so great, it was judged best attempt taking evidence and the inquest was journed till Monday

Louis Desjardin, 54 years old whose wife daughter were both burned to death, became ins to-day from grief.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 28 —The latest rev figures of the Holyoke disaster are . dead, 71, fa ly burned 2, otherwise burned and wounded, Of the 71 dead 55 were females and 16 males.

Prof Marsh on the Indian Manageme

NEW YORK May 28.—Prof O. C Marsh write the Evening Post complaining of the great injustic him in a Washington dispatch, saying he had pressed great sorrow for having unwillingly ca criticism of the Indian management, which he c sidered generally good and he has not seen the dian supplies in bulk but based his complaint samples shown him by Red Cloud. The profe adds "It would be difficult to condense a grea number of misstatements in the same space t this paragraph contains When it was written I been at the Indian department only twice mainly to correct misrepresentations similar to above I had expressed no sorrow whatever at h ing caused criticism of Indian management, only regret that I had not done so years before do not consider the Indian management gener good, but as a whole, thoroughly bad. I did acknowledge to the commissioner that I based complaints merely on samples Red Cloud sho but I have an abundance of other evidence of fr practised on Red Cloud and his tribe that I st ready to give before any proper tribunal I do consider your correspondent at all responsible errors in the dispatch as he only repeated on the many sent out by the Indian ring to wea the force of the facts I laid before the President board of Indian commissioners."
